Angie,

I received your phone message from this morning. Thank you. I see the information is posted and I am reading it right now. I've come across something you might want to correct as soon as possible since it's early in the game. In the Requirements for Applications Acceptable for Filing the abbreviated acronym for the US Geological Survey needs to be changed to USGS instead of showing the USFS (which is the Forest Service).

03. Requirement for Applications Acceptable for Filing.

b. ii. For a surface water sources include the official geographic name listed on the United States Geological Survey (USFS) Quadrangle map. If the surface water source is not named on the USGS Quadrangle map, describe as "unnamed," but identify the system or river to which it the source is tributary.

USFS should probably be changed to USGS.

I'll continue reading but thought you might want to get to this one as soon as possible.

Steve
